

How Administrations work!

The Toffee Unwrapper: As the garbage man lifts the herbage can (1) to empty it*, he unwittingly puts on the switch (2) inside the house (which through a system of pulleys and strings (3) is attached to the can), so that the fan (4) starts rotating thereby winding the string on the little drum attached to it (5), so that the pan containing some pebbles (6) is tilted so as to empty the pebbles into the pitcher kept below thereby bringing up the level of water in the pitcher, upon which the thirsty crow (7) which is seated holding the toffee (8) in its beak, such that the two ends of the twisted wrapper are held in place through a system of twisted rubber bands (9), releases its hold on the toffee to reach for the water, so that the rubber bands unwind thereby unwrapping the toffee, which is collected in the receptacle kept vertically below (10).

* For Indian conditions where garbage clearance is a rarity, tying the string to a milk bottle may serve the purpose equally.