

Financial Express – New Delhi – April 14, 1991

How Administrations work!

The Morning Tea Maker : As the cock (1) crows in the morning, the cordless microphone (2) attached to its neck activates the motor (3) programmed to recognize the cock's crow, causing the toothed wheel (4) to rotate which in turn through a matching gear turns on the water tap (5) attached primarily to the kettle but also to a small rubber bladder (6), which as it swells with water, presses against the switch (7) turning the electric kettle on, and as the kettle begins to fill, the evacuated rubber ball (8) rises tipping the small suspended milk container (9), which in turn tips the small suspended spoon (10) containing a mix of tea and sugar (to taste) and the tea is ready as the kettle boils.*

* The cock has to be caught and the microphone removed before consuming the tea, for a cock given to random crowing may burn the motor.